MR. DEPEW NOT DISTURBED IN THE LEAST. Chaumory M. Depew did not appear to be disturbed of Washington, who has decided to sue him for $1,500 for work which he alleges he did in gathering information for Mr. Depew's Centennial oration. Mr. Towne was a classmate of Mr. Depew's at Yale. He studied for the ministry, but has been lecturing and doing general literary work recently. "When I started in March to prepare my oration," said Mr. Dépew, "I received a letter from him about his lectures, which he said promised well. It occurred to me that he would be just the man to delve into the Congressional Library and archives for the purpose of sending me some fresh matter about George ington. I thought it an easy way for him to earn $100 and a graceful way for me to pay him. I heard nothing from him except that I received a photograph rdinance of 1787 and a sketch of Richard

Mr. Depew finished his oration and on informing Mr. Towns of the fact was startled by receiving a bill for $800. "I told him the amount was excessive," added Mr. Depew, "and offered him $150. This refreed and write me the would sue for $1,500. I am now waiting for the summons. There is only one thing to do and that is to let the gentleman take that course."

MISS PIXLEY NOT IN DANGER. The illness which prevented Miss Annie Pixley from appearing on Monday at the Theatre Comique, Harlem. is a light attack of pneumonia. She caught a se-vere cold while travelling and was quable to act in Montreal two or three nights of the week. Her physidan, Dr. Holbrook Curtis, does not consider Miss Pirley to be in any Imminent danger, and hopes that she will be able to go out in about ten days. Miss Pirley and her husband and manager, Robert Fulford, are at the Westminster Hotel.

NO ARBANGEMENT FOR MR. BISHOP'S PUNERAL The wife and mother of Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader, who died on Monday at the Lambs' Club, were in this city yesterday, but no positive ar ents for the funeral had been made at a late hour. The burial will be in Greenwood, and will dueted by either the Masons or the Elks, to both of which associations Mr. Bishop belonged. The autopsy did not reveal any brain disease or pe cultar conformation, although the weight, forty ounces was large for a man of his sized head, and the gray matter was somewhat darker than usual. It is believed that Mr. Bishop had accumulated a fair fortune, but his papers had not been thoroughly examined yesperday, and no accurate statement was obtainable.

A SUCCESSFUL BENEFIT.

The benefit performance for the Louis Downtown Sabbath and Daily School passed off successfully at the Star Theatre yesterday afternoon, and the charity is richer by about $1,700. The programme printed, and from which no number was omitted, was a farce played by Herren Ranck and Friese, and Fraulein Herrman, of Manager Amberg's company; songs by Herr Alvary, Proderick Solomon and Isabelle Urquhart; a recitation by Miss Heien Mar, and Elsie Leelle in "Editha's Surgias"

I taink I have made a very valuable discovery, and i am anxious that others should also eally the beauth of it. For nearly two years I have been suffering greatly from sleeplassness at night, and frequently away for bean able to sleep more than one or I wo bours able to sleep more than one or I wo bours during the night. I have tried a great number of proposed remodles, some of which have helped me a little, but not for any length of time. A little more than a foreignt ago, while staying at the house of a record in the country, my good hostess brought into the parior quite late in the evening, a bountful supply of itself reason peanuts. As I am very fond of them when they are not too much cooked, I ate quite their of them, and soon after retired to bed. I found the text morning that I had enjoyed the best sleep

I had experienced for over a month. I attributed this at once to the peanuts and determined to try them again the following evening. I did so, and also drank a glass of fresh, sweet milk after I had finished the peanuts. That night I slept still better, and now, for a fortnight, I have partaken of the peanuts and the milk every night, and have not only slept remarkably well, but have also fully recovered from a slight attack of indigestion which had troubled me before.

ACTORS AND THEIR PLAYS.

E. E. Rice, who is Henry E. Dixey's manager, said resterday: "The announcement in a morning paper that Dixey has signed a contract with Mr. Duff to play for six months at the Standard is at least premature. There have been negotiations, but nothing has been settled, and in any case a contract will not be signed before a week from now." Gus. Williams will probably be a member of Herrmann's vaudeville company next season. These are the last nights of "The Wife" and of the season at the Lyceum. After Saturday night the theatre will be closed, except for an occasional performance, till Sothern's appearance on August 19. J. K. Emmet's engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre is so successful that it will be continued till June 15. The curtain will not be raised in future

The scenery for Marie Wainwright's production of "Twelfth Night" will be painted by Richard Marston, Charles Graham, Phil. Coatcher, William Shaffer and Gaspard Maeder. The costumes will be furnished by Hawthorne and Eaves of this city, and Worth of Paris. Benson Sherwood is making the mechanical contrivances and Edward Siedle, of Palmer's Theatre the properties. New music will be written by Frank Howson, and the grand ballets and chorus will be under the direction of Mme. Malvina. The play will be produced under the direction of E. Hamilton Bell and Ben Teal,

The season at Amberg's will close to-night, with a performance of "Sqbwabenstreich," for the benefit of Business Manager Hermann Schoonberg.

"Mazulm" the Ravel pantomine, which had so long a run at the Academy last year, was revived at the Standard on Monday.

The marriage of Miss Fanny Davenport to her letd-ing man, Melbourne McDowell, will it is now said take place the latter part of this month at Harriburg, Penn., and not in this city, as was at first announced. The 100th performance of "A Midnight Bell" at the Bijou will be celebrated on May 20, when the sourcentr will be a book containing photogravure pictures of the managers and every member of the cast.

WOMEN'S TEMPERANCE UNION DIVEDED Minneapolis, Minn., May 14.—The recent county convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union let the public into the secret. Efforts are now being made by the rival malcontents to organize a rival association, and it is not at all unlikely that they will succeed. The cause of the whole trouble is "third partyism." Secret meetings of those inter-Channey M. A fight which the people during the days of festivity, he severely demesones to the one which is on between Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, of Iows, and Mrs. Hobart, State president of the Minnesota Women's Christian Temperance Union. In the last issue of "The Progressive Age," the official organ of the Minnesota Women's Christian Temperance Union, is a long, three-column article by Mrs. Hobart, in which she seeks to prove all the charges that she in which she seeks to prove all the charges that she had previously made through the papers or against Mrs. Foster, and which Mrs. Foster had pronounced "false in letter and in spirit; false in general and in particular." Mrs. Hobart accuses Mrs. Foster of trying to unite the Women's Christian Temperance Union to a political party under the guise of "non-partisanship"; of suppressing as president of the lowa Women's Christian Temperance Union legally elected delegates because of their indorsement of prohibition, of trying to make it appear that there is widespread disaffection in the ranks of the Women's Christian Temperance Union by "sending out spurious reports and doing other Judae-like work."

SUCCESS IN MASSIONARY WORK.

The anniversary meeting of the Woman's Boards of Domestic and Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church was held yesterday in the church at Fifth ave. and Forty-eighth-st. The morning session was devoted to the subtect of foreign missions. After prayer by the Rev. Weeley R. Davis, various reports relating to the foreign work of the Board were read by the Rev. Drs. Gleason, Coe, and Cobb, and the Rev. Mr. Van Der Wort. The address of the session was by the Rev. Dr. Leonard Kipp, of Amoy, China, on "Work for our Lidies in China." The Rev. Albert C. Sewall, of Schenectady, gave the meeting an exceedingly pleasant quarter of an hour with his Missionary Object Lesson." The Rev. John H. Wyckoff, of India, also spoke, and Mrs. Jonathan Sturges was elected president of the Board. A luncheon was served in the parlors of the church, after which the afternoon session, which was occupied with domestic missions, began. The most interesting feature of this session was an illustrated address by Samuel M. Zwemer, a missionary, who has been laboring for some time among the emigrants from Holland who have settled in Daliota. The closing address by the Rev. Dr. Wesley R. Davis, of Brooklyn, was a eulogy on the work of the Board. The sixth annual report gives many interesting facts about the work accomplished. During the last year special attention has been given to providing proper homes for the missionaries in their fields of labor. Many who were living in wretched mud huts now have decent houses comfortably furnished. The most interesting feature of this session was an

JULIA MARLOWE'S SECLUSION. From The Philadelphia Inquirer.

From The Philadelphia Inquirer.

Much comment is indulged in among playgoers about the life of seclusion from society led by Julia Marlowe. A close friend says: "She is very young, and all her time now must be devoted to winning indestructible fame in her art. If she were to consent now to meet all the people who desire to make her acquaintance it would amount to three times her ordinary labor. If she began to receive friends in one city she would feel compelled to do so in others, and she could not stand it. In three or four years she may he ready to enter society, one might say. Now she cannot meet people, and has no time for even correspondence, except with three or four friends, and let me say I know that they are all lady friends. In her mails there come many letters from curious people simply desirous of getting her autograph. They are never answered. She receives letters from cranks and dudes, as all activesses do; that is, they come addressed to her; they never reach her, but go to the waste basks."

NEW NAMES ON THE COMMITTEE;

STUEVERANT FISH MAKES A STATEMENT BE-GARDING THE ENTERTAINMENT BE-

CEIPTS AND EXPENSES. Colonel Cruger, chairman of the Centennial Calebration Army Committee, forwarded to Brayton Ives. chairman of the Finance Committee, yesterday, a financial statement showing that the former body had expended a total of $127,667 73, and had received from all sources $120,419, leaving a deficiency of $7,248 73. Following are the latest subscriptions the memorial arch fund:

At a meeting of the Arch Committee yesterday several new names were added to its membership to fill vacancies caused by resignations, inability to serve, etc. Among them were those of Grover Cleveland, John Jacob Astor, jr., S. D. Babcock, David Banks, Edward Cooper, Hugh J. Grant, Eugene Kelly, Levi P. Morton, J. Hampden Robb and J. Edward Simmons. Replying to a notification of his election to membership on the committee, Mr. Cleveland writes: The purpose of the committee appeals in the strongest possible way to my sympathy and approval, and I cer-tainly feel much honored by my proposed relationship to this noble object. I gladly accept the place awarded to me on the committee, and only wish that I was sure of my ability to render very useful service.

The Committee has appointed Edward Payson Weston, as sole collector of subscriptions to the Memorial Arch Fund. Stuyveant Fish, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, declared yesterday to a Tribune reporter, that his committee had never intended otherwise than to render a report of its financial transactions. Among other things he said:

actions. Among other things he said:

From the beginning the Entertainment Committee refused to handle any of the moneys appropriated by the State or city. It did, however, stipulate that a fund of $20,000 should be guaranteed to it from the moneys to be raised by subscription, and that in addition thereto the proceeds of the sale of all boxes and seats in the Opera House, and of all tickets for the ball and banques, abould be set spars for its exclusive use. So positive was the committee in this regard that, by a fermal resolution, it refused to make any contracts until these terms were guaranteed to it. I personally recommended to Mr. Gerry, chairman of the Executive Committee, several months ago, that these facts be made not only a matter of record, but of public notoriety. Unforunately that course was not pursued, and consequently silly rumors were recenty started in some of the newspapers encerning our financial affairs. At a meeting of the chairmen of committees held May 4 I distinctly stated than an account of the receipts and expenditures of the Entertainment Committee would be furnished as soon as Many desirable things, including board and rooms, household and other help, are advertised to-day on the fourth and fifth pages of The Tribune.

FRIENDS OF TEMPERANCE MEET.

DR. CUYLER PRAISES PRESIDENT HARRISON FOR REFUSING A GLASS OF WINE.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the National Temperance Society took place last evening at the Broadway Tabernacie. The Rev. T. L. Cayler, president of the society, was in the chair, and the church was well filled with earnest temperance people. On the platform were men and women who belonged to several religious denominations, but all of whom were united in their sentiments respecting the subject of temperance. The programme was varied with vocal and instrumental music. Miss Anna Park gave a cornet solo, and Mrs. Alice J. Osborne sang appropriate songs.

The annual report had been read and adopted in committee during the alternoon, and the exercises of the evening were begun with a few remarks regarding it by the recording secretary, J. N. Steams. He wald that the affairs of the society were in a perfectly satisfactory condition, but that its work was capable of much greater expansion. The society had pub-lished fifty-eight new publications, making a total of 1,756 on the catalogue, and a total of 784,508,299 pages of temperance literature printed by the society since its organication. The total receipts were: from publications, 848,094 67; from donations, 811,801 92— 859,956 59, and the total expenses, $59,908 67. The society's assets are about 875,000.

President Cuyler spoke with enthusiaem of the progress of the temperance cause in the United States, but after having referred to the success and magniested in the new organization are being held, and as | ficence of the recent Centennial celebration, and the counced the reported excesses that occurred at the tennial Ball. He made an effective reference to the tennial Bail. He made an effective reference to the beer and wine floats in the Industrial parade, saying: "As they approached the President of the United States they paused to hand him a glass of their wares. He refused it with a polite bow and they passed on. This was a grand temperance lesson, which all should be quick to learn."

The Rev. Dr. P. S. Henson, of Chicago, was well received. The real anarchist, he said, is the saloon. Apart from the saloon anarchy was an impossibility. Apart from the saloon anarchy was an impossibility even in Chicago, and there would be no fear of a conflict between labor and capital were it not for the saloon. General Clinton B. THE UNIVERSAL PEACE UNION.

BELVA A. LOCKWOOD TALKS ON CURRENT TOPICS -THE SESSION CLOSED.

The celebration of the twenty-third anniversary of the Universal Peace Union, at the Friends' Meeting House, Fifteenth-st. and Rutherford Place, was com-pleted yesterday, the attendance being much larger than on the day before. The morning seesion was taken up with the reading of the reports of the treasurer, A. S. Zeising, of Philadelphia, of Levi K. Joslin, of Providence, R .I., who represented the Board of Trustees, and of the Rev. Amanda Deyo, of Oxford, N. Y., who gave the results of the efforts to raise money by subscription.

The chief feature of the afternoon session the address by Belva A. Lockwood on the aims of the union. She did not confine herself to discussing the causes of war, but also paid her attention to the tariff, monopolies, trusts, speculation, stock gambling, the money power, corruption in politics, arbibiling, the money power, corruption in politics, arbitration, and Bishop Potter's surmon at 8t. Paul's.

At the evening session, Aircel H. Love, president of the union made an address bidding farewell to Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood and the Rev. Amanda Deyo, who will sail to-day for Parls, where they will represent the union at the Parls Exposition and the Peace Congress. The two women then spoke briefly of their mission, and other addresses were made by Mrs. Mary Frost Ormsby, the Rev. M. M. Mangasarian, of Armeria; the Rev. Paulus Moort, of Liberia; Mrs. M. Louise Thomas, ex-president of Sorosis, and others. Thirteen "convictions" embodying the aims of the Union were passed, and officers were elected as follows: President, Aifred H. Love; vice-president, Dr. Sarah T. Rogers; secretary, the Rev. Amanda Deyo; treasurer, A. T. Zelsing.

REGINNING A THREE DAYS' CONVENTION The National Convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians began its annual session of three days at Tammany Hall yesterday, more than 500 delegates from different parts of the country being in attendance. William Sheridan, the National Delegate of the Order, presided, and made a brief opening speech. Those present included T. Walsh, of West Virginia; J. W. Connolly, Maryland; Patrick Dugan, New-Jersey; Michael Creamer, Connecticut; John Buckley, Dakota; T. J. Haley, District of Columbia; J. J. Cavanagh, Mississippi; T. F. Scannell, Kansas; Thomas Noon, Minneota; H. J. Mutholland, Wisconsin; Thomas Norton, California; T. F. Thornton, Alabama; T. M. Carmody, Illinois; T. M. Luffdey, Colorado; John McFarland, Pennsylvania; John O'Connor, Ohio; J. J. Fallon. Massachusetts; Terence Donahue, New-York, and T. J. Walsh, Maine. The convention was principally occupied in the appointment of committees. During the course of the debates in the convention an effort will be made once more to bring into harmony the two wings of the organization, each of which has now been claiming for years to be the only one efficially recognized by the parent body in Ireland known as the Board of Erin. cupied in the appointment of committees. Prince Bismarck, according to private letters received here, has been making inquiries of the American Legation at Berlin in regard to the public career of Commissioner William Walter Phelps. The only element of uncertainty they admit is the wondorful expacity with which Mr. Phelps's brother Commissioner, John A. Kasson, has of shouldering his way to any given point he sets his mind aron. atterly regardless of other people's corns or personal comfort.

Both Kasson and Phelps are on the best of terms with

THE RIGHT WING IN BATTLE.

GENERALLY CHOSEN TO MAKE AN ASSAULT-A STORY ABOUT GENERAL LYON. to the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: The day after the review of April 30 I came across, on one of the ferryboats, an old veteran who, entering upon reminiscences of the war, told me the following socidents. At the battle of Spring-field, Mo., General Lyon, for whom he had been acting as scout, was found by him the night before the battle in a moody state of mind, appearing to be much in doubt about some dispatches. "Turning to me," said the man, "as soon as I entered, 'Joe' said the General, 'I want you to work through the lines again and find Price; ask no questions, but note, if he picks up anything, which hand he uses; and if not, then which side of his head he parts his hair; and return to me.' I looked at General Lyon in astonishment, thinking that he had suddenly gone demented. Divining my feelings, 'Never mind,' said he, with his melancholy smile; 'Go, and be back before daylight.' I returned, and when I gave him the required information he brightened up, and gave orders rapidly to his orderlies. I suspected since that he wanted to learn whether Price was right or left-handed, and thereby know whether he would be attacked on his right or left finals."

Looking this over I find the theory most sound. Take a few of a multitude of instances. We ware the attacking party at the battle of Bull Run; the Confederate left was attacked. The Confederates stracked at the battle of Pittsburg Landing; the Union loft was attacked. At Murfreeboro it was taken. hair: and refurn to me. I looked at General Lyon in ettacked at the battle of Pittsburg Landing; the Union loft was at atched. At Murfreesboro it was the same, and at Gettysburg and Chickamanga. The Confederate left was attacked at Frederickaburg, the second battle of Bull Run, Gaines's Mill and other places. In the case of Grant, however, as he attacked along the whole line, his battles do not affect the question. It is curious to note the same peculiarity smong condicts in the Revolution, the War of 1812 and foreign wars generally. In fact, great battles appear, in this light, in no way different from vulgar personal fisiculfs; the blows are given naturally with the stronger hand. If General Lyon had noticed this, his perspicacity was certainly remarkable.

THE ARCH AND CENTRAL PARK.

Fo the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: It seems to many that the Washington Square location for the Centennial Arch can be advocated only by the selfish interest of the few rich and landed residents of that part of the town. Outside those residing in that immediate neighborhood, few would ever see the arch unless they went there for the special purone arch unless they went there for the special purpose. I would suggest that subscribers to the building fund make a condition of payment that the arch be erected at the Fifth-ave, entrance to Central Park, as by all odds the most desirable location to be found.

It would seem that the Central Park location would commond itself to any patriotic and public-spirited citizen not blinded by self-interest. CITIZEN,

B. Eichardson, secretary of the association; Knight Cheney, H. B. Wilson and Albert Tilt presided at the sub-tables. The chuirman made a brief opening speech. "We may," said he, "be as dissimilar as ingredients possibly oan be, in many respects; but by a careful shaking up we will evolve a judicious mixture, an excellent and succulent salad, so to speak. (Laughter and applanse.) Our first toast, "The President of the United States," having been so much spoken of during the Centennial Celebration, will be drank without any response. The next toast, two wrought into one, "Our Country—The Land of the Free," and "The State of Connecticut—The Craile of the American Silk Trade," will be responded to by Mr. Barbour. Mr. Barbour gave an interesting history of the silk trade and of the development, and closed with an eloquent appeal to all citizens to atand by the Stars-and-Stripes. Congressman Simonds replied for "The Congress of the United States"; State Senator Griggs for "The State of New-Jersey and the Silk Industry"; she Rev. Mr. Guilbert for "The State and City of New-Yerk," and E. H. Ammidown, for "Home Markets for Home Markets for Elster Societies," and Peter Byle for "The Ladies." A large number of popular necessities could be met by consulting the carefully classified advertisements on the fourth and fifth pages of The Tribune this morning.

MR. BULL ROPES FOR BRIGHTER DAYS.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE STOCK EXCHANGE TELLS HIS ASSOCIATES WHY THEY HAVE BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

There was so little opposition at the annual election of the Stock Exchange on Monday that it confined itself to the casting of blank ballots. The result of the election consequently excited no interest when it was announced from the rostrum. When Mr. Bull was presented as the re-elected president there was no surprise on the floor, but the groups dissolved to gather around him before he had gone far into his address. Mr. Bull spoke as follows :

gather around him before he had gone far into his address. Mr. Bull spoke as follows:

The year which has just closed has not been, it must be confessed, a satisfactory one to our membership. It is true that his reports of our treasurer and of the trustees of the Gratuity Fund indicate that as an organization we have prospered, and that the Exchange has moved along its way with its usual quiet force. But as individuals most of us have found it a period of disappointment, during which we have been forced to learn the lesson of patient waiting. Indeed so protracted and so trying has been this period that we cannot wonder if many of you have felt at times that perisans your representatives were not doing all that could be done to relieve the situation. And so I wans to avail of this, my only opportunity, of mentioning the subject to you collectively, to assure you that the appeals of the conference of husiness which properly belouts to it has received from your officers the most constant and the most exhaustive consideration.

The problem is a complicated one, and after we believe it solved the solution can usily be proved correct by the test of time. But to the andeavor to decide how far business has been diminished by natural and hereadicable causes, and how far by remediable influence, and what remedies shall be applied in the latter case, we have given without stint our time and our best thought. Progress has been slow. Never along the laws delays became proverbing have they secund more vexatious.

been slow. Never shoet the law's delays became proverbial have they seemed more vexatious.

But progress has been made in more directions than one, and I feel justified in expressing to you the hope that from it favorable results will be seen in the safe hands, rou most heartily for the consideration shown me during my term of office, and the proof of your confidence and suproval which you have given in acking

PREDERICK J. HOSFORD.

Prederick J. Hosford, ago seventy-nine, died on Monday at his home, No. 107 St. Mark's-ave., Brooklyn, from heart failure. His death, though sudden was not entirely unexpected, as he had been a sufferer for many years from asthma. Mr. Hosford was born in Albany on June 9, 1810, and lived there until he was twenty-nine years old. There he gained his business experience under the supervision of his uncles, who formed the publishing firm of E. & E. Hosford, which is now nearly a century old. Upon his removal to New-York Mr. Hosford founded the firm, at present prominent in the stationery trade, of Hosford & Sons. For fifty years Mr. Hosford had lived in Brooklyn and was actively interested in its charitable and re-ligious institutions. He was one of the original members of Dr. Bethune's Church, which was also known as the Old Central Dutch Church. For thirty years he was treasurer of the Board of Education of the Reformed Church, haying been elected to the position annually. The Newsboys' Louging House, the Old Lattles' Home in Washington-ave, and the the Reformed Church, having been elected to the position annually. The Newboys' Louring House, the On Ladles' Home in Washington-ave, and the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor were also objects of his practical sympathy and assistance. Mr. Hosford was a member of the Society of Old Prooklynites and the Long Island Historical Society, and in his earlier life he belonged to the order of Odd Sellows.

Fellows.

Twelve years ago he retired from business. He had been a director in the Bank of North America and also of the Fireman's Trust Insurance Company, of Brooklyn. His wife and two sons survive him.

CHARLES FASOLDY.

Albany, N. Y., May 14 .- Charles Fasoldt, the well. mown clockmaker, inventor and mechanical artist. died here last night, age seventy years. His malady was Bright's disease of the kidneys. Mr. Fasoldt was born February 23, 1819, in Dres.

en, Saxony, where he learned the watchmaker trade. In 1839 he went into the army, serving for itx years. At the close of the rebellion he escaped through the Prussian lines, and, coming to this couritry, settled in Rome, N. Y. About 1845 he made the first eight-day watch, which contained two mainepring barrels. From this time on his ingentous spring barrels. From this time on his ingenious inventions brought him great prominence, and between forty and fifty gold and bronze medals. He came to Albany in 1861, and held his residence here ever afterward. His first notable work was astronomical clocks and micrometer regulators. Ten years later he constructed the first town-clock with two novements, inventing many of the parts. For the large tower clock Mr. Fasoldt exhibited at the Philisdelphia Centennial Exhibition in 1876 he received the prize medal of honor and diploma of merit. Besides his horological work, he gave some attention to microscopies. By the aid of several machines of his own invention, he was enabled to rule a glass 1,000,000 his horological work, he gave some attention to micro-scopics. By the all of several machines of his own invention, he was enabled to rule a glass 1,000,000 per inch. The United States Government purchased one of these wonderful pieces of work. He produced natch of the finest and most ingenious chronometrical and microscopical machinery in the world.
